1 IN 10 MEN EXPERIENCE DEPRESSION OR ANXIETY

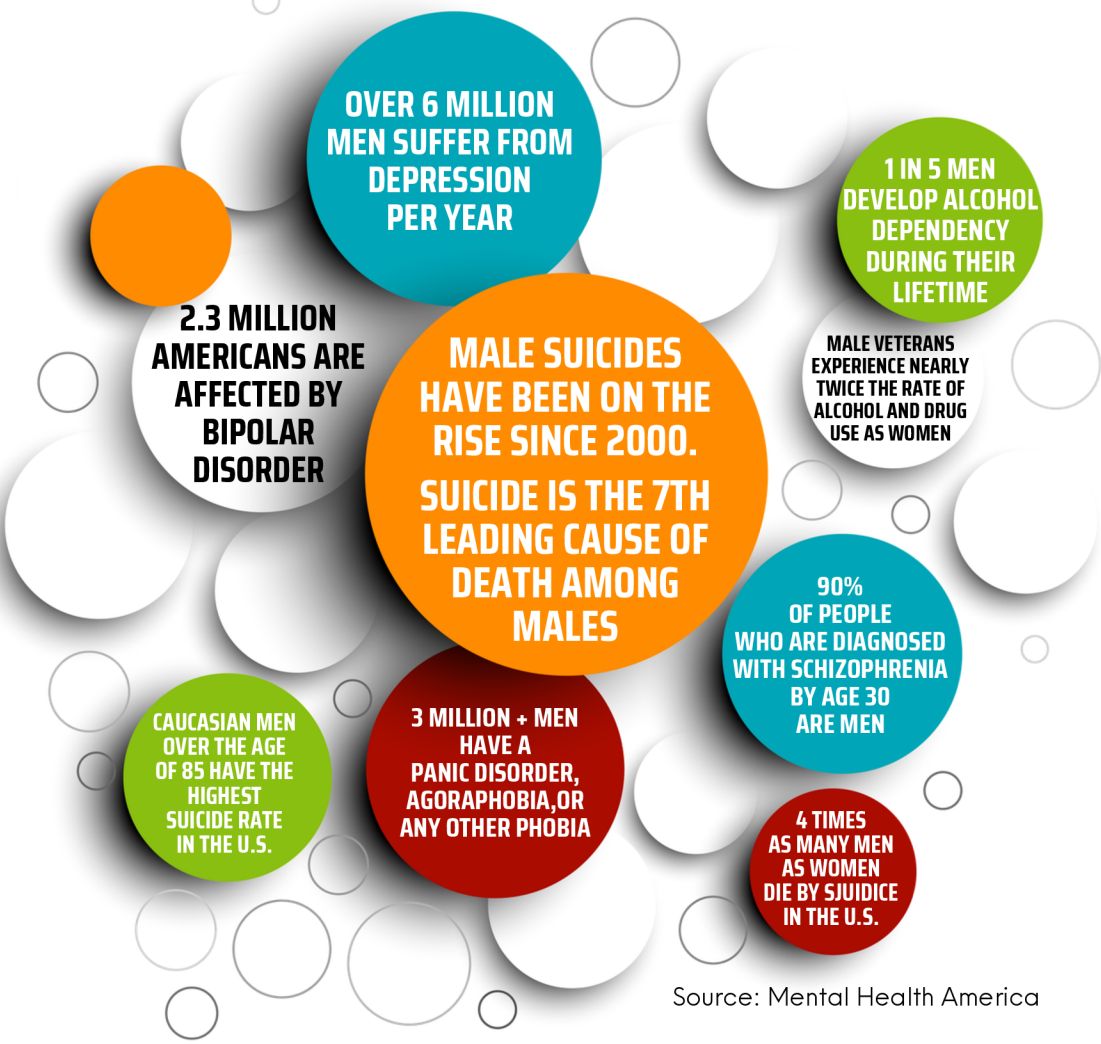

Less than half will seek treatment.

Each year it is estimated that over 16 million Americans experience symptoms of depression or anxiety with men accounting for roughly 6 million and many of those going undiagnosed or underdiagnosed.

Moreover, more than four times as many men as women die by suicide every year, according to the Anxiety & Depression Association of America (ADAA). Men are 50% more likely to die from alcohol-related causes than women.

Schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, and eating disorders also account for some of the major mental health problems affecting men. These surprising statistics denote the underlying issue that men are far less likely to seek treatment yet are still suffering from mental health issues in excessive numbers.
